

Kronch and Grizzly Wild Alaskan Salmon Oil Pump
Use one Stroke per of the pump In One Feline Instincts' Recipe.

We have phased out the free salmon oil capsules that come with the large Feline Instincts® supplements. Our recommended replacement is a wonderful product called Kronch Salmon Oil and Grizzly Salmon oil that comes in a pump and is a vast improvement in both quality and ease of use in our recipes. Capsules are very messy and customers have long complained about having to use them. The pump is very easy to use with no measuring or mess. Many of our customers already use these salmon oil pumps with our recipes and have for a long time requested we add it to our product list. We actually feel like we are coming out of the dark ages by replacing the messy capsule with "just one stroke of the pump" pre recipe. I love this pump and I am sure you will too!

There is naturally a small charge for this improvement but not without good reason. Our goal has always been to provide to best quality product at the lowest possible price. As you know the price of oil has increased the cost of freight and those items manufactured from petroleum (plastic jars and lids). Feline Instincts has given three years of thought to this change. To keep our product affordable we can absorb some of the cost but not all. Eliminating the salmon capsules helps a little while we provide our customers an excellent alternative that is of good quality and easier to use.

It's much easier now with the salmon oil pump and not at all expensive when you see how long one bottle lasts. No more messy capsules... imagine that! One stroke per recipe replaces two salmon oil capsules.
